Partnerships supporting Congo's development.

Message from the President

The DRC's development benefits when institutions and businesses combine their efforts around projects that serve the country's needs.

Taleli contributes as a private company alongside institutions, respecting their mandates. We aim to prepare Congolese opportunities more effectively and make them accessible to investment partners.

Trust grows through sound projects and clear commitments. An entirely Congolese management team leads this ambition: bringing together expertise and attracting investors to support our country's development.

Message from the Managing Director

Rigorous preparation to support cooperation

A project must address a specific need and give each partner a clear understanding of the context, their role and the decisions ahead. Our work starts by defining that framework, then organising the contributions needed to prepare the project.

We complement the work of institutions and technical teams. Within the agreed scope, Taleli facilitates exchanges and prepares information for investors, taking local expertise and the project's viability into account.
